Romania Urges O, Warsaw Pact Be Ended

BUCHAREST, Nov. 4 (AP)—Romanian Communist Party today called for the dissolution of the Warsaw Pact, which it said was a "Yugoslav creation."

The Romanian leader said that the two treaty organizations were "an anachronism in international life and a residue from the cold war."

The Yugoslav agency gave no more details of the Romanian leader's remarks about the Warsaw Pact and NATO pacts.

However, Mr. Ceausescu for several years has championed the rights of smaller states and called for abolition of all military pacts.

In June, while in Peking, he said that Romania would continue to strive for "nuclear disarmament and for the abolition of the military blocs and the dismantling of the military bases on the territories of other states."

He also appealed for "the withdrawal of troops within their national boundaries, the reduction of military budgets as well as other such actions meant to diminish the danger of war."

[Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev made liquidation of the "military blocs," NATO and the Warsaw Pact, part of a peace plan introduced during the 24th party congress last March. He repeated this idea during his visit to Paris last week when he said that the Soviet Union and its Warsaw Pact allies were ready to "end the division of the world into politico-military groups."]

Sources of Discord According to Tanjug, Mr. Ceausescu said today that disagreements between the Communist movement stemmed from a divergence of social, economic and national conditions and from the fact that old forms of unity were no longer in accord with new historic circumstances.

Any attempt to uphold the old views led to dissonance and this was why it was necessary to work actively for new forms of unity, Mr. Ceausescu declared.

He said that these disagreements and contradictions were temporary and that the Romanian party was endeavoring to promote relations among Socialist states on the principles of Marxism-Leninism and proletarian internationalism, respect for equality and national sovereignty and noninterference in the internal affairs of others, Tanjug reported.

The minister, Mitchell Sharp, said he believed that sea laws may be violated by the U.S. action in barring vessels from a 50-mile control zone around Amchitka, an island in Alaska's Aleutian archipelago.

Mr. Sharp said that Canada had no plans to lodge a formal protest because it had already challenged the test and because "you can't protest on the basis of a theoretical point."

A 464-foot-long telegram with 22,107 signatures, including those of 53 members of Parliament, was sent to President Nixon in protest against the planned test. The wire, compiled by radio station CKOY in Ottawa, urged the President to withdraw his approval of the explosion.

Senate Panel Supports 15% Import Surcharge

By Fred Farris

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee today approved broad new powers for President Nixon in the trade field, including authority to raise the import surcharge to 15 percent.

To exercise the powers, which also include the authority to impose quotas on imports of any product, the President would have to declare a "balance-of-payments emergency."

In his drastic new economic policy announced Aug. 15, Mr. Nixon imposed a surcharge of 10 percent on many imported items, although the tax was lower than this on some imports.

Under the authority supported today by the Senate committee, the President would be able either to raise the import surcharge to 15 percent or to impose quotas by country or by item.

The provision approved today by voice vote—with one dissenter, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D. Wis.—must pass both the Senate and House before it could take effect.

There was no indication that President Nixon would use the authority if it cleared Congress.

But the President would have another significant tool to use in negotiations with foreign countries in seeking easier entry by U.S. goods into their markets.

In another vote, the committee adopted an amended version of the White House proposal to give tax relief to U.S. firms that increase exports.

The compromise, while less generous to the firms than the administration's plan, is more so than the House-approved measure. It could cost the Treasury $200 million a year in tax revenues, as compared with the $600 million tax loss that the Nixon proposal involved.

The President, to declare a "balance-of-payments emergency" invoking the higher surcharge and quota authority, would have to show these conditions existed:

- A full year of deficit in the U.S. balance of payments.
• A serious drop in the nation's monetary reserves.
• Serious threatening of the U.S. international financial or trade position.
All these conditions exist now, committee spokesmen said.
The House Banking Committee voted today to write into Phase 2 economic legislation a provision that allows pay raises contracted before the Aug. 15 price-wage freeze.
The committee also approved a provision allowing consumers to sue for damages if charged prices higher than those allowed under regulations.
The committee vote came the day after strong labor resistance was reported to proposals for Phase 2 wage controls made by public and management members of the Pay Board. The proposals included a 5 percent guideline for wage increases, sources said.
As amended, the legislation would provide that pay raises provided in contracts executed before Aug. 15 must be allowed unless the President finds the raises are grossly disproportionate to pay increases in the economy generally.

Supporters said the effect was to put on the Pay Board the burden of proof in the case of an previously negotiated increases if disallowed.
Another amendment adopted would require controls on interest rates whenever wages and price controls were put into effect. Mr. Nixon has asked for only standby authority to control interest.
Abandoning plans to seek a House vote on the legislation next week, the committee adjourned until Nov. 18, with a number of issues still to be decided, including whether to grant the one-year extension of control authority Mr. Nixon has asked.

Lowest Weekly Toll Since '65 2 GIs Die in Vietnam War; Casualty Lists Questioned

By Iver Peterson

SAIGON, Nov. 4 (AP)—The U.S. Command today announced that two Americans died in action during the week ending last Saturday, the lowest one-week combat-death figure for American troops in South Vietnam since 1963.

However, a command spokesman conceded that more American troops might have died in fighting during those seven days. He said their deaths were not "processed" through the reporting system at the Pentagon.

The spokesman conceded in response to questions, that the low casualty figure was in effect "a bookkeeping figure," because the command reported previously that four American soldiers were killed by enemy fire in Long Khanh Province last Saturday.

The questioning about the accuracy of the command casualty reporting system arose at the daily command briefing today because Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird announced on his arrival in Saigon last night that the casualty figures released

Package Split Into Two Bills Senate Committee Agrees To $2.3 Billion in Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee agreed today to two new foreign aid bills with a total of $2.3 billion to continue the aid program until next June 30, committee members said.

The committee agreed to authorize approximately $1.14 billion for economic and humanitarian assistance, and $1.18 billion for military assistance in separate bills.

The Nixon administration had sought $3.8 billion for foreign aid, and the legislation enacted by the Senate last week would have authorized $3.9 billion for all purposes—economic and military.

The Foreign Relations Committee chairman, Sen. William Fulbright, D. Ark., was reported to have proposed at a luncheon meeting of the committee today that the program be divided into these parts with a total just under $3 billion.

The committee's action became known as chairman George Mahon of the House Appropriations Committee, moved to keep the foreign aid program going until the end of the present session of Congress.

If both House and Senate assent, funds would continue going to the aid agency while an interim program is drafted and passed.

Rep. Mahon, D. Texas, asked a temporary continuation of the present program past its scheduled Nov. 15 end until a new authorization bill is enacted. Both he and the ranking Republican on the appropriations committee, Rep. Frank T. Bow, of Ohio, said they wanted sharp cuts made in a new aid program, however.

"I'm one of those who wants to see a vast reduction of foreign aid," said Rep. Mahon. "I believe there will be a vast reduction."

He appeared before the House Rules Committee, which schedules legislation for floor action, to urge clearance for the continuing resolution to keep aid funds flowing. Also included in the temporary measure would be funds for defense and the anti-poverty program.

The House is expected to act on the resolution Tuesday, but its outlook in the Senate—where the aid program is presently structured—has encountered strong opposition—is cloudy.

The Mahon committee's measure is an appropriations bill and strictly speaking no money bill is supposed to be approved until the program it is funding has been authorized. But there were indications that House leaders may wince at this to keep the aid program going if no other way were found.

Meanwhile, the Pentagon kept up the heat on Congress in the administration effort to rescue the aid program, killed by the Senate last Friday.

Deputy Defense Secretary David M. Packard compared the Senate's 41-37 vote—which he termed an "absolute disaster"—to that rejecting the League of Nations after the first world war.

He told a news conference that no matter how much of the aid program is kept going, the damage to this country's foreign relations has been done.

"The confidence of our friends and allies," he said, "in what we will do in the future to work with them, is undercut."

A complete restoration of the aid program—which the administration says it wants—would help in reversing the loss of confidence, he said, but any partial program "will just affirm the fears generated by [the Senate's] action."

Mrs. Gandhi, Nixon Confer On Pakistan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—President Nixon assured India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi today that the United States wants to encourage a political solution to the strife in East Pakistan and he also urged moderation to reduce the risk of war.

The President and Mrs. Gandhi met for two hours and five minutes at the White House and agreed to hold a second business meeting tomorrow which had not previously been announced. Mrs. Gandhi arrived in Washington today on an official two-day visit.

Presidential press secretary Ron Ziegler told newsmen the President also told Mrs. Gandhi that the United States wants to do what it can to assist those who had suffered since March from the strife in East Pakistan.

It was pointed out also that the United States has been in the forefront of the international relief effort to help the estimated 9.5 million Pakistan refugees in India.

Mr. Ziegler also said the White House talks "should be regarded as an effort to achieve better understanding of each other's point of view."

Mr. Ziegler added it can be concluded from the substantial detail with which they discussed events in Asia that "the United States will not sit back and let events take their course."

White House sources indicated the President had urged Mrs. Gandhi to order a pullback of Indian forces along the frontier, provided Pakistan troops took similar action.

[Mrs. Gandhi had stated publicly earlier in the day that she had come to the White House looking for a better understanding from the President about India's position in its tense confrontation with Pakistan over the East Pakistani problem, Reuters reported.]

[But diplomatic observers said the account of the meeting, as relayed by Mr. Ziegler, indicated that Mr. Nixon and Mrs. Gandhi had failed to narrow their differences.]

Sheriff of Nottingham Takes Up Arms in Joust to Save His Job

NOTTINGHAM, England, Nov. 4 (AP)—The Sheriff of Nottingham—that legendary lawman who used to fight Robin Hood in Sherwood Forest—is now fighting city hall.

A proposed new law submitted to Parliament today would reorganize local and civic governments throughout England, and one of the changes could mean going away with the ancient office of sheriff in Nottingham.

There has been a sheriff in Nottingham for 700 years and I'm blown if any reorganization of local government is going to put a stop to that," protested the incumbent sheriff, Bernard Bateman. He contacted 23 other sheriffs in England to mount a protest campaign to keep their jobs.

A modern English sheriff isn't much of a figure compared to the battle-axe-toting lawmakers of the Middle Ages who had powers of life and death over "handis. These days they don't even carry a sword.

They wear business suits instead of robes or armor, and their job is purely ceremonial, overseeing local elections and escorting judges in and out of courtrooms.

Nov. 4 (AP)—The Department of Defense must notify the soldiers' next of kin and ascertain the cause of his death before adding his name to the casualty list. This can take up to several weeks, he said, so that the deaths reported for last week may have occurred some time before.

The command said that 63 soldiers were wounded in clashes last week, of whom 20 were hospitalized.

The spokesman said that 19 Americans died "nonhostile" deaths last week from accidents, illness, drugs and murder.

The figures included 19 men swept out to sea as they were playing touch football on a beach on the central coast last week.

Officially, last week's deaths were the lowest since the week ending March 8, 1965, when two men also died in action. During the week of the same week, 21 U.S. soldiers were killed in fighting.

The deaths brought to 45,588 the number of U.S. combat deaths in the Vietnam war; 9,879 more have died in the "nonhostile" category, according to command figures.

Enemy deaths were put at 1,058 during the same week. Of these, the South Vietnamese forces claim to have killed 521.

According to the U.S. Command figures, 799,632 enemy fighting men have been killed in the war so far.

Track Depot Wiped Out
SAIGON, Nov. 4 (AP)—U.S. rocket-firing helicopter gunships wiped out a North Vietnamese truck depot in the northern quarter of South Vietnam, destroying all 10 vehicles and killing 11 Communist soldiers, the U.S. Command said today.

It was the biggest action of the day. Secretary Laird conferred for the second day with Ambassador Edward Brooke and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams on further American troop cutbacks, economic aid to South Vietnam and pacification.

A spokesman for the command, Maj. Richard Gardner, said that the truck depot was spotted from the air 25 miles southeast of Khe Sanh.

Senate Cuts Building Bill For Military

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (AP)—The Senate passed a $2 billion military construction bill yesterday after some senators criticized what they termed the excessive spending of dollars overseas.

One issue was $3.8 million in the bill to convert heating plants in U.S. Army barracks in West Germany.

The money was cut after charges that it was one more reflection of a wrong attitude in spending money abroad—no reason cited for the Senate's defeat of the foreign aid bill last week.

"This should be regarded as a warning," said the majority leader, Sen. Mike Mansfield, a persistent advocate of reduced U.S. spending for NATO.

The issue dealt with the conversion from coal to oil of 3,108 heating plants on bases operated by U.S. troops but owned by the West German government. Already 303 have been converted and the money was sought for the rest.

Sen. Charles Percy, R., Ill., said that the German government would derive the ultimate benefits from the new heating systems if the U.S. troop level was reduced.

Sen. Percy also said much more foreign spending should be eliminated, including the salaries of 74,000 European employees at U.S. NATO bases.

The bill covers construction of housing, air bases, hangars and hospital facilities for all the services in and outside the United States.

As passed by the Senate, the bill is $10 million less than the bill passed by the House, and $127 million less than what the government asked. The vote was 95-1 with Sen. Mike Gravel, D., Alaska, the lone dissenter.

House and Senate conferees, meanwhile, dropped a Senate amendment adding $381 million in military pay raises, with the understanding that the House will consider the matter promptly if it is included in a separate bill.

The Senate also approved legislation to set standards making cars more resistant to crash damage and less expensive to repair.

The bill, passed 89-4, also requires the Department of Transportation to study all cars sold, determine their susceptibility to damage, estimate their probable repair costs and inform consumers within two years.

Want Troops to Watch New Vote Evers Says Blacks Propose To Challenge Miss. Elections

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 4 (UPI)—Charles Evers, the defeated black candidate for governor of Mississippi, led scores of other black candidates here yesterday in announcing that they would challenge in the federal courts Tuesday's statewide elections. Mr. Evers called for federal troops to supervise new elections.

The challenge will seek to overturn an unspecified number of local elections in which black candidates lost to whites in areas where the black voting majority heavily outnumbered the whites.

The challengers say that white election officials could not allow hundreds of out-of-state poll watchers to take part in the elections nor watch the counting of votes. The governor's race, in which Mr. Evers received about 21 percent of the vote and a white lawyer, William Waller, about 77 percent, would not be challenged, Mr. Evers said.

Vietnam Reference
"I don't mind being beaten but I won't allow them to take this election from my people," Mr. Evers said during an interview. "We are now going to challenge the election and we will also ask for federal troops to supervise the next one. Our troops go to Vietnam to insure free elections; why should they not come to Mississippi for the same purpose?"

"The only hope we black people have in this country is the vote. If we cannot use our votes and be sure of fair elections, how can we be a real part of this country?" he asked.

Late reports yesterday showed that 28 blacks had won elective offices out of a field of 284 competing for offices that ranged from local constable to governor.

The winners included incumbent state Rep. Robert Clark of Lexington, who defeated his white opponent, J.R. Love of Tchula, by about 400 votes out of a total of about 13,000.

Mississippi's attorney general, A.F. Sumner, was in Colorado and could not be reached for comment on charges by the black candidates.

A Justice Department spokesman in Washington would say only that the federal government had had observers in 16 counties in Mississippi to watch the proceedings and examine in 36 counties to receive complaints. They did not have a complete report from the federal workers.

John C. Brittain Jr., a black staff attorney with the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law, who is helping to prepare the challenge, said that attorneys had documented "violations of the election law" by white election officials who "denied independent candidates the right to have poll watchers."

He said that instances of "physical and economic intimidation, as well as threats of economic retaliation," had also been documented as well as the denial of poll watchers the "opportunity to observe the counting of the ballots" and an "overall attitude of disregard for the rights of independents." He said that other court cases might be prepared regarding some persons who had been assaulted during the elections.

Senators Pass Up Mace Nomination

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (UPI)—The nomination of Howard P. Mace, former State Department personnel chief, as ambassador to Sierra Leone was "passed over" by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at a closed session Tuesday, it was learned today.

Reliable informants said this probably means that the nomination is dead. They said the committee had not voted either for or against the controversial nomination.

A number of former State Department employees and Mrs. Cynthia Thomas, widow of a foreign service officer who committed suicide last April, testified against Mr. Mace before the committee. They alleged he treated personnel unfairly.

East Germans Send GI Back

HEIDELBERG, West Germany, Nov. 4 (UPI)—East Germany today turned over to U.S. authorities an American soldier who had driven an Army truck across the border last Friday, a spokesman said.

The soldier, Spec. 4 David E. Fields, 25, of Madison, Wis., was returned at a border point near Hof, Bavaria. The spokesman said he was being held for further investigation of his "unauthorized absence in East Germany."

The East Germans also returned the truck.

Surfaced Sub Fires Missile For 1st Time

Off Coast of Florida;
Soviet Ship Nearby

COCOA BEACH, Fla., Nov. 4 (UPI)—A new Poseidon missile was successfully fired from a surfaced U.S. submarine for the first time today and a nearby Russian trawler got a full view of the unusual shot.

The 34-foot rocket popped out of one of 16 launching tubes in the submarine Nathaniel Greene, ignited with a burst of flame in the air and streaked into the sky.

The submarine was only 10 miles east of Cocoa Beach, in clear view of spectators gathered atop a 10-story beachfront office building.

The Air Force said the Russian trawler was located a half mile east of the submarine.

Destroyer Escort

The Nathaniel Greene was accompanied by a destroyer, and a Coast Guard cutter. An Air Force helicopter circled nearby and the Russian vessel which was a few miles north, heading to sea from nearby Port Canaveral.

A fully outfitted Russian spy ship watched the first submerged launch of a Poseidon, 30 miles east of Cape Kennedy on Aug. 3, 1970. The Pentagon said it was not immediately determined if the Russian vessel which watched today's launch was an intelligence gathering ship.

The Nathaniel Greene was enveloped in a cloud of white smoke a few seconds after the Poseidon was launched.

It was the first time a Poseidon was launched from a surfaced submarine although the missile has been fired several times from the large surface test ship observation island.

The surface launching was designed to prove it could be done in a wartime emergency when a submarine might be in shallow water or unable to submerge for some reason. The submarines are designed to launch their missiles while submerged.

Chile Moves To Cut Imports As Crisis Looms

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 4 (AP)—President Salvador Allende Gossens has ordered Chile's imports to the barest essentials in a move to stave off a crisis in foreign currency reserves.

To implement his decision, Chile's central bank has demanded a 10,000 percent prior deposit change on more than three-fourths of the capital and consumer goods the country buys abroad, making the cost of these imports prohibitive.

Knowledgeable sources estimated that the central bank's foreign currency reserves have dropped from about $400 million to probably less than $175 million in the one year Mr. Allende's coalition administration has been in power.

The restriction, announced yesterday, as explained by an importer, means that a company that wants to import $500 worth of spare parts to keep its machinery going must deposit $50,000 with the central bank when requesting an import permit.

Fight Expected in Senate Navy Is Pushing for $1 Billion Carrier

By George C. Wilson
WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 (UPI)—The Navy's first billion-dollar ship, a new nuclear-powered aircraft carrier, is now well on its way to becoming a reality.

Navy Secretary John H. Chafee said in an interview that, after earlier doubts, the Navy and its civilian bosses were united on the need to put a big chunk of money for the carrier in the 1973 budget.

Without counting the cost of the aircraft that will go aboard it, the latest estimate for this new attack carrier—designated CVA-70—is $851 million. The aircraft would put the price well above $1 billion.

Inflation and rising costs have pushed the price of its sister carrier, the Eisenhower, which is expected to cost $616 million.

Mr. Chafee conceded that $1 billion is a staggering amount of money to pay for any single weapons complex. But he argued that the aircraft carrier has already proved itself a vital projection of national power in the past and would become even more important as foreign land bases for U.S. forces decline as a result of America's policy of presenting a low military profile in the world.

Without going into whether the Navy needs 15 attack aircraft carriers for the indefinite future, Mr. Chafee said that the obvious problem was that the U.S. carrier fleet was creakingly old and needed modernization.

"I think the President was greatly impressed with what carriers could do in the Mediterranean," Mr. Chafee said in referring to the political leverage they provided during the Middle East crisis last fall. "Everybody who was associated with the flap thought it was pretty nice to have a few carriers around."

EEC Urged to War On Drug Problem

PARIS, Nov. 4 (AP)—France's chief law-enforcement officer today urged the Common Market to join in a well-conceived, strong and persevering fight against drugs.

Raymond Marcellin, Minister of Interior, said the action "should permit Europe to offer the world the benefits of an exemplary work."

The statement, read by an aide, opened the first Common Market meeting on the drug problem. Initiated by President Georges Pompidou, the one-day conference grouped 32 high officials from Belgium, France, Germany, Holland, Italy and Luxembourg, as well as Britain which is entering the market.

CAIRO, Nov. 4 (UPI)—A top aide of President Anwar Sadat says it is "difficult, even impossible" for Egypt to accept the latest U.S. proposals for an indirect settlement in the Middle East.

Indicating rejection of the proposed indirect Egyptian-Israeli talks in New York, Mohammed Hassan Heikal, editor of the semi-official Al-Ahram newspaper, said such talks would only produce an "American solution" of the Middle East conflict.

Writing in Friday's edition of Al-Ahram, Mr. Heikal also said: "Egypt has already decided whether to resolve the conflict by peace or war."

"Regrettably, the authorities of the host country, in spite of the assurances given by their representatives, have not taken the necessary measures to prevent the continuance of these acts of banditry and organized crime," the six delegations charged.

A-Test Vow To Canada by Yugoslavia

OTTAWA, Nov. 4 (AP)—Yugoslavia's Foreign Minister Mirko Tepavac pledged yesterday that his country would work with Canada to try to bring about a complete cessation of nuclear testing by the great powers...

Mr. Tepavac and Canadian External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp met for 40 minutes in a wide-ranging review of world affairs. They were scheduled to confer again today.

Mr. Tepavac is accompanying President Tito on his visit to Canada. President Tito today held the first formal political talks of his five-day Canadian visit...

Meanwhile, the British Foreign Office announced today that President Tito has accepted an invitation to make a 24-hour visit to Britain Sunday on his way home from North America.

President Tito will be the guest of Prime Minister Edward Heath at the British leader's official country residence of Chequer's outside London. The Foreign Office said that the Yugoslav leader would lunch with Queen Elizabeth Monday.

In Ottawa yesterday, a crowd of Serbian Canadians shouted "Tito murderer" as the Yugoslav president briefly visited Parliament.

Canadian police followed many of the 150 Serbians from Toronto to Ottawa. One man attempted unsuccessfully to break through police barricades. No arrests were made.

Signs of Breakthrough Seen In 2-Day Berlin Access Talks

BONN, Nov. 4 (UPI)—West and East German negotiators completed a two-day session on Berlin traffic arrangements today and there are signs that they may be approaching a breakthrough.

The meeting of the delegations resumed in Bonn at 11:00 a.m. and continued into the late evening. This followed a 90-minute meeting yesterday, after which the two teams went into separate consultations.

The latest in a series of two-day encounters between the teams led by State Secretaries Egon Bahr for West Germany and Michael Kohl for East Germany followed a three-day visit to East Berlin by the Soviet party secretary, Leonid I. Brezhnev, last weekend.

A joint communique issued after Mr. Brezhnev's talks with East German leaders raised hopes that East Germany had dropped its objections to the Bonn delegation negotiating the traffic problem on behalf of the West Berliners.

The East German stand so far had hindered progress on the traffic negotiations, which have been completed before the four-power Berlin agreement can be put into effect.

There still was no indication that a new East German attitude had helped the negotiations. The unusual length of today's session bolstered hopes that it had.

A West German spokesman said, however, that no statement on the latest round of talks would be issued in Bonn until 11:30 a.m. tomorrow.

Unesco Fetes 25th Anniversary Of Its Founding

PARIS, Nov. 4 (UPI)—The countries belonging to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization today celebrated Unesco's 25th anniversary.

The 16th General Conference of Unesco brought together representatives of 44 nations which gathered in 1945 in London to found the UN agency and delegates from 81 countries which joined after Unesco was created Nov. 4, 1946.

President Georges Pompidou of France told the conference that the agency now "is attacking the problems of cultural development as no longer tied to the aspirations of an elite, but regarded by each individual as a right."

China's seat in the Unesco conference hall was empty. The Peking government was invited but did not reply. Unesco officials said. The Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan, one of the founders of Unesco, was invited before its ouster in favor of Peking last Friday, but its delegation did not attempt to enter Unesco headquarters today, officials said.

Britain Loses An Empire But Gains—A Rock

LONDON, Nov. 4 (AP)—In the dusk of dwindled empire, Britain has moved to extend its territorial possessions by 5,500 square feet.

A bill was introduced in the House of Lords yesterday to formally annex Rockall, a desolate island, 239 miles west of the Outer Hebrides. The island may be the site of a huge natural gas deposit. The government plans to incorporate it "into that part of the United Kingdom known as Scotland."

Mr. Heikal said the latest U.S. proposals call for Egypt and Israel to send to New York emissaries for indirect talks through Joseph J. Sisco, a U.S. assistant secretary of state.

The talks, he said, would be patterned along the lines of the "Rhodes formula" of 1949 when Egyptian and Israeli delegates held indirect talks on the island of Rhodes through Ralph Bunche of the United Nations.

"This is something which is difficult, even impossible, for us to accept," Mr. Heikal said. His reasons were: "America already knows everything about the Egyptian and Israeli positions and there is nothing it can find out in New York that it cannot obtain from Cairo or Tel Aviv."

"This arrangement would be worse than the 'Rhodes formula' because the talks would be under U.S., and not UN, supervision. Such talks would produce an American solution that would cancel the Security Council resolution of Nov. 22, 1947, isolate the other big powers and bury forever the mission of (Gunnar V.) Jarring."

Another adviser to President Sadat said tonight that the Soviet Union is increasing weapons deliveries to Egypt while the United States insists that the Arabs make concessions to Israel under a peace settlement.

Hafez Ismail, the president's adviser on national security affairs, spoke in a political seminar that was broadcast by the Cairo radio.

Chaplin Is Back 'Modern Times'

By Thomas Quinn Curtiss

PARIS—In 1936 it was renowned as an unbroken... in the voice of... first heard... in the midst of... movie, he sang... such tongue... on which the... ed and finding... light of a café... the hand in... his cue. The... sed in jabber... is the climax... which re-l... last evening... and a large seg... in the au... the Paramount... elicits Champ... again a huge to the melody of a haunting... theme song. As in his other... Chaplin here has trapped... to serve as an instrument... producing a masterpiece... of perfect timing. The comedy... with fantastic pranks... alternating with... sardonic social comment... is hilarious on both levels... There is sentiment, strong and... but it is proportioned. The... wistful note is lightly... and never held too long... into the maudlin.

Faulette Goddard, radiantly... youthful at the outset of... career, is a winning heroine... and Chester Conklin appears... the repairman who gets... entangled in the factory... machinery, to remind us... what a skillful cartoonist... he was. The walk-up-matched... Chester, a graduate of... Sennett comedies, gave the... screen memorable caricatures... as the German paterfamilias... in "Greed" and as the small... town mayor in the Pola Negri... version of "Van Vetchen's... 'Tattooed Countess'."

Moore Rothman and Oliver... Unger invited the first-night... audience to a supper at... Maxima's after the gala... premiere. Chaplin and a... whole regiment of Chaplin... lined up at a long table... facing a delegation of... French ministers and... their wives. The king of... laughter, now 83 and hale... and hearty, smiled benignly... on his admirers, resembling... a jolly Santa Claus. But... the occasion was more in... the nature of a New Year's... Eve celebration, ushering... in the era of a general... release of his incomparable... films.

At the Pagode there is "Sally... of the Sawdust," D.W. Griffith's... photographing of the stage... musical "Poppy" which brought... fame to W.C. Fields as a... character actor. This, too, is... a silent film (alas, without... music) and in it the Great... Man repeats his performance... of Eustace McGargle, the... circus clown who rears an... orphaned maid. Even when... originally seen, "Sally of... the Sawdust" scarcely seemed... worthy of the Griffith who... made "The Birth of a Nation,"... "Intolerance" and "Broken... Blossoms," the incipiently... sentimental style being by... then a bit passé. Carol... Dempster as the frolicking... tomboy was trained to... imitate Mary Pickford and... operates as a coy jumping... jack.

"Modern Times": Faulette Goddard and Charlie Chaplin.

Alfred Lunt, essaying the... movies for the first time, is... seen fleetingly as her... wealthy beau. But it is... when the inimitable Fields... is given free range—negotiating... the shell game, engaging in... carnival park brawls and... grandly putting his social... superiors in their place—that... the comedy becomes full-blooded... and rockingly funny. This... McGargle of Fields is a... creature strayed from the... pages of Mark Twain. On the... bill you will also find... Fields' first movie, a two-reel... slapstick exercise, "Pool... Sharks," made in 1915.

I must confess that I have... not read François Sagan's... novel "On Peux de Soleil... dans l'Eau Froide," but a... well-read overseas at the... Concorde-Pathé (where the... film version is on exhibit)... assures me that Jean-Claude... Carrière's adaptation... retells the story faithfully.

We are confronted again... with the young man-married... woman business, basically... still a serviceable situation... if treated with some... dramatic imagination as in... the internationally successful... Hungarian play "Fata Morgana"... of Ernst Vajda, with its... deep sex psychology. In its... present handling it is... filled with cloying... mawkishness. There is... music by Michel Legrand... to emphasize its... romantic yearnings, but... the direction is... indifferent and often... against the grain. A... break-up scene is... accompanied by jazz... trumpeting on television;... there are more... glum train rides than... one would find in a... round dozen

Mrs. Igor Stravinsky: Artist in Her Own Right

By Henry Raymond

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (NYT).— In the Paris of the Roaring... Twenties, when Russian émigrés... drove taxicabs or worked as... seamstresses amid a frenzied... artistic and literary life, one... of the celebrated romances... that sprang from the émigré... colony was that of Igor Stravinsky... and Vera de Bosset, a costume... designer for Stravinsky's friend... and patron, Sergei Diaghilev.

Since their marriage in the... United States in 1940, Vera... Stravinsky has—as Virginia Woolf... remarked of Sara Coleridge—lived... in the light of her husband's... sunset. While his compositions... revolutionized music, she pursued... a less radical course, quietly... turning from costume designing... to painting such romantic... subjects as flowers, seashells... and miniatures.

When Stravinsky's health... began to fail early in 1969, his... wife set aside brush and... needlepoint to devote herself... completely to his care.

Exhibition

Now, seven months after his... death here at the age of 83, Mrs. Stravinsky, more than 20 years... his junior, is indomitably... determined to refashion her... life, not merely as the... custodian of his musical... legacy but also as a... creative being in her own right.

Encouraged by her friend... Sonya Kroyt, an art dealer and... the widow of Boris Kroyt, violinist... of the Budapest Quartet, she... has assembled 40 of her... paintings for an exhibition... that opens today at the Gallery... of the Chelsea National Bank... here, appropriately only four... blocks away from Carnegie Hall.

In addition, she is working... on her memoirs, completing a... picture biography of Stravinsky... for publishing an English publisher... and supervising television... programs on the composer's... life with the help of Robert... Craft, the conductor.

"I began to write a diary... some years before I left... Russia after the revolution,"... she said in a rare interview... yesterday at her spacious... apartment overlooking Central... Park. The composer's widow, a... red-haired woman with a... winning smile and the big... blue eyes one associates... with painted Russian... peasant dolls, took time... off from setting up her... show to reminisce about... the past and talk about... the future.

Taking tea with Mr. Craft... and Lillian Lihman, who... was Stravinsky's personal... manager, is to savor not... only the humor and gossip... of the worlds of music... and art, but also the... irate reaction of a... housewife to such... mundane problems as... the Internal Revenue Service.

"Do you realize," Mrs. Stravinsky... said indignantly, a... dark frown crossing her... usually genial face, "that... because somebody assessed... my husband's archives to... be worth $3.5 million, the... government is trying to... tax me for $500,000? Nobody... seems to have the money... these days to buy the... archives, so how will I... get the money to pay for... the taxes?"

Her round face relaxed... when she showed a visitor... a silver-framed photograph... on a small table showing... Mrs. Stravinsky fondly... peering over the shoulder... of her husband, a... caper figure in a... broad-brimmed felt hat... looking very much like... Sir Cedric Hardwicke.

"That was taken in... Cambridge on March 9, 1940, the... day we got married—Stravinsky... was lecturing at Harvard," she... said gently.

From Massachusetts, the... couple moved to Hollywood... into the midst of an... enclave of distinguished... European refugees, among... them Thomas Mann, Max... Reinhardt, Julian Huxley, Franz... Werfel and Alma Mahler. Other... celebrated neighbors were... Arthur Rubinstein, Jascha... Hefetz ("He had too many... parties") and Edward G. Robinson, who... interrupted his duties in... the Navy to sponsor the... Stravinskys in obtaining... their naturalization papers.

Performances

For the last few weeks, Mrs. Stravinsky and Mr. Craft, a... 45-year-old musician who... has for 20 years dedicated... himself to being Stravinsky's... alter ego, have been... supervising a 90-minute... television program of... Stravinsky's work to be... shown on television on Nov. 22.

She also closely follows... performances of the late... composer's music, and last... Sunday, for example, she... sent congratulations to... Alexander Schneider, who... conducted a chamber... orchestra, and Cathy... Berberian, the mezzo-soprano, in... a glowing all-Stravinsky... program at the New School.

At the end of the... interview, Mrs. Stravinsky... spoke of her husband's... last days in the apartment, a... 14-room cooperative they... acquired just three months... before his death.

"We spent the last... evenings listening to... music in the living room,"... she recalled, speaking... softly. "He followed every... piece with the score and... had his usual comments... about the performances—... some very good, some... not so good."

In our 747, the man in front won't use your legroom as his luggage rack.

We've given him (and you) a special overhead locker. It takes care of coats, hats, parcels, bulging bags and bulky briefcases. So there's absolutely no reason why he should want to go stuffing things under seats. If he insists, he'll have to put them in his own legroom. A neat little bar stops him from using yours. It's all part of BOAC's aim to make you more comfortable in our 747 than in any other aircraft in the sky. The same aim inspired us to give you an extra inch of room for your knees. And an extra two inches of room for your hips. Unlike some airlines, you see, we're not just offering you a plane with more seats than ever before. We're offering you a plane with more room than ever before.

All the 747 needed was BOAC service. BOAC takes good care of you.

The right moment to make an attacking opening lead against a suit contract is not easy to find. Such a lead requires good judgment since, if it fails, it may give away a trick. The tendency is to make a passive opening lead against suit contracts. However, it is sometimes right to attack if the opponents reach five clubs or five diamonds. The fact that they have avoided three no-trump may indicate that they are exposed in one suit. Therefore the defenders had better cash some winners right away, hopefully before discards are possible.

trump, South made an overtrick after surrendering a spade. If West had led the heart ace, taking the slight risk that South held the guarded king, the defense could have won two quick tricks in that suit. South would then have had to judge the diamond position. He would have succeeded as the cards lay by the same line of play. But chances are he would have tried to ruff out the queen in three rounds, or perhaps to finesse against West, and failed.

THREE TRAPPED TIGERS

By G. Cabrera Infante. Translated from the Spanish by Donald Gardner and Suzanne Jill Levine with the author. Harper & Row, 487 pp., $8.95

Reviewed by David Gallagher

"THREE Trapped Tigers" is a remarkable book. I doubt a trumper book has been written in Spanish since "Don Quixote." Granted, that is not saying much. Literature in Spanish has not been noted for its humor. Yet this, precisely, is one of the book's strongest points: It has savagely refreshed an often portentously solemn heritage. It is also one of the most inventive novels that has come out of Latin America, and that is saying a great deal. The inventiveness of Latin-American fiction since Borges is by now (one would hope) fairly widely recognized.

Finally, its humor is fundamentally linguistic—the pun rate often runs at several per page. First published in Spain in 1964, part of its enterprise is to record the kind of Spanish that is spoken in Cuba—the kind I had imagined to be by definition untranslatable. Not only have Donald Gardner and Suzanne Levine proved otherwise, they have, in collaboration with the author, produced one of the best translations I have ever read. Cabrera Infante's English is known to be excellent—he has written several film scripts in English. What has been done here is to reconvert the novel—an equivalent version that is never quite the original but that is rarely inferior.

Superficially, this is a story of night-life in Havana shortly before the revolution. It takes us into most of the nightclubs, strip-joints, barris and cantinas the city could provide—the ones where after-hour chivorchicos were staged, where people sang songs as if they really cared, and where one might have seen a Negro woman improvising a rumba as though she were inventing dance.

Cabrera Infante (who left Cuba several years ago and now lives in London) has no illusions about what his native island was like under Batista. The book is full of suggestive glimpses of social injustice. "Three Trapped Tigers" is nevertheless an exercise in nostalgia, an attempt, to quote its Carrollian epigraph, "to fancy what the flame of a candle looks like after the candle is blown out." The nostalgia is not for the poverty most of the characters were brought up in. It is rather (I think) a nostalgia for the once-familiar bar, the familiar singer, the familiar friend, for an intensely local yet richly varied world. The novel therefore is a celebration of the small things that oblivion or time demolishes.

Friendship is an important ingredient of this book. On one level, "Three Trapped Tigers" is about the efforts of a group of young men to clutch a sort of private solidarity, to make a defiant private statement composed of humor, of a rein kept the party got and, though we're (and are unlikely to many pages, we're laugh), we recognize the weapon against all unsaid. For these can entertain each hours on end, never communicate what is them. As one says: "Wherever he made was hidden."

Cabrera Infante could see no difference a writer and a bus novel is directed against what is Spain America—who have to write is above it gush oneself from a to fabricate sonorous phrases that carry the signature "this is and yet, Cabrera, too clever not to real enterprise is impossible grammatical girls is phone conversation, fully transcribed, missing consonants a syntax. The result is writing, with a year range of significance original conversation.

In the first place, transcription of spoke looks "funny" on the the joke becomes so. Moreover, Cabrera Infante's unsophisticated characters sometimes unwittingly having often perhaps least at the moment language in the page out to be a more than when it issues mouth.

"Three Trapped Tigers" meditates nature of writing in g on the nature of its. Its great merit is that so in a manner that trades on the general enjoyment of the book witty qualities.
